

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am excited to see the post of the product design role at GitLab posted on LinkedIn. As a senior experience designer and researcher with over 5 years of experience conducting research and solution validation, creating designs from low-fidelity wireframes to high-fidelity design, paired with my knowledge of frontend technology, I'm confident that I would be a valuable asset to the team.

Already trained in solving complex problems, I have experience working on several 0-to-1 products. I was responsible for shaping the product directions by balancing business goals and users' needs. I worked closely with PMs and developers to iterate designs. One of my significant contributions to my current company was to create a data-driven design culture. I started the handbook for recruiting and conducting user interviews and also worked closely with developers to set up analysis tools for our products.

As a student who studied computer science and has used GitLab, I am already knowledgeable about the product. And after reading some posts about the company culture of GitLab, I believe nothing can be more exciting than making a great product better. And it would be an excellent opportunity for me to learn from the most talented people in the world.

Thank you for taking the time to review my application. I would greatly appreciate an interview opportunity with GitLab to further discuss my suitability for the position. I can be contacted at +65 85953910 or through email at li.yichang@yahoo.com.sg.

Yours sincerely,
Yichang